As industry leaders we continue to develop our training courses to meet the current requirements of our customers and to meet industry expectations. The Advanced training course is targeted specifically at problem samples, regulatory issues and Glucan interferences within the BET.

Get answers to questions like these and more:

- How do I address interfering factors?
- What causes interferences?
- How do I develop and perform validations?
- How do I perform endotoxin calculations?
- What is \((1\rightarrow3)-\beta-D\text{-Glucan}\) and why is it important in BET?
- What do current regulatory guidelines mean?
- What are retests / repeat tests for BET?

The course will be delivered by Veronika Wills, one of Associates of Cape Cod’s Technical Support Specialists. Veronika has worked for ACC for over 5 years and has extensive experience in BET. With her research background in microbiology, biochemistry and molecular biology, she can address all of your BET-related questions and concerns.
